● About me

In the spring I would start a story with great enthusiasm and in the winter, I would burn it with despair. It took me years to put myself on the right track and make the best decisions. At the age of 15, I managed to finish my first fantasy novel. But didn't publish it until I was 24 years old. Also, by that time, I had graduated in film and animation directing at Tehran Institute of Technology, and I was improving my skills in illustration and concept design. Now I have five published books and have worked as a 2d freelancer in many projects such as games and animations
